

Sgt. Pam Daniels Memorial
Care Kits for Kids

The Dudley Woman's Club joined forces with the Dudley Police Department to establish the Sgt. Pam Daniels Memorial Care Kits for Kids program in 2015.

Imagine the fear a child experiences when police come into their home to break up a domestic dispute, arrest a parent or remove the child from a dangerous situation.

Care Kits are backpacks with comfort and care items for children in crisis or suddenly removed from their home or parents. Dudley police officers carry the Care Kits in their cruisers to give on-the-scene comfort and about 48 hours of essentials to ease children while transitioning to foster care, or simply needing short-term comfort.

The Dudley Woman's Club collaborated with Police Chief Steven Wojnar, Dudley-Charlton Regional School Superintendent Gregg Desto, and representatives of New Hope and the state Department of Children and Families in developing this club program.
